

Security hole

A PI has demanded you implement something in an insecure way as their project is not a target for hackers.

Hold your cards face down, and allow each other player to steal one at random.